

Dr. Kimberly Manalili, PhD

Dr. Kimberly Manalili, PhD is a Health System Impact Postdoctoral Fellow with Alberta Health Services Provincial Population and Public Health, and the Department of Family Medicine at the University of Calgary. Kim has a background in global public health, implementation science, and patient and community-oriented research. She completed a PhD in the Department of Community Health Sciences at the University of Calgary in 2022, on informing the implementation of Person-Centred Quality Indicators in primary care in Alberta. The current focus of her postdoctoral research is using an implementation science and systems thinking approach to exploring the factors that influence health system integration across public health and primary care in Alberta.
